A food processing equipment maker based in Norwich has completed a project for a Scandinavian snack giant.

Fabcon Food Systems has provided two of its potato chip batch fryers, as well as new weighing, slicing and feeding equipment, to KiMs for the potato snack firm's production plant in Skreia, southern Norway.

Trevor Howard, managing director of Fabcon Food Systems, said: "To supply one of Scandinavia's most respected snack manufacturers is another milestone for us as it shows again that our products and designs are in high demand.

"It has been a game-changer for Orkla C&S Norway as they look to produce new products. We look forward to working with them in the months and years ahead."
